York County Consolidates Government Broadcasting Channels; YouTube Workshop Offered for Residents

October 15, 2025

Beginning November 12, York County's government programming will consolidate from three broadcast channels into one, simplifying access for viewers and improving the overall viewing experience.

Residents will now be able to find all County programming on Cox Channel 86 and Verizon Channel 2138. This unified channel will continue to air government meetings, public service information, community updates, and special features about York County. In addition to traditional cable access, viewers can also stay connected through the York County YouTube Channel, where programs are available on demand anytime. The County's YouTube page provides an easy way for residents to watch meetings, news segments, and other community-focused videos from any device.

To help residents make the most of this resource, York County will host a free YouTube Workshop on Wednesday, October 22, from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Yorktown Library. The workshop is open to York County residents and will provide step-by-step guidance on how to access and navigate the County's YouTube Channel.

Space for the workshop is limited. To register, email publicaffairs@yorkcounty.gov or call the Yorktown Library at 757-890-5207

York County, Virginia—home to historic Yorktown and the victory that won America's independence—serves its community with pride.
